NOTHING LIKE IT

Its peculiar efficacy is due as much to the process and skill in compounding as to the ingredients themselves. Take it in time. It checks diseases in the outset, or if they be advanced will prove a potent cure.

No Home should be Without It.

It takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. All who lead sedentary lives will find it the best preventive of and cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Piles and Mental Depression. No loss of time, no interference with business while taking. For children it is most innocent and harmless. No danger from exposure after taking. Cures Colic, Diarrhœa, Bowel Complaints, Feverishness and Feverish Colds. Invalids and delicate persons will find it the mildest Aperient and Tonic they can use. A little taken at night insures refreshing sleep and a natural evacuation of the bowels. A little taken in the morning sharpens the appetite, cleanses the stomach and sweetens the breath.

FOR WHOSE BENEFIT

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

THE GIRL I USED TO KNOW.

The girl I used to know, dear heart, so long ago,
Was a charming girl, and very, very sweet;
The color of her eyes was the blue of summer skies,
But my dream of paradise,
It was fleet.

The girl I used to know, dear heart, I loved her so,
When she died, I grieved for many and many a day,
For her sympathy was wide, and her love seemed like a tide
Sweeping vanity and pride
All away.

The girl I used to know, she's where heavenly breezes blow,
In that happy land beyond the moon and sun;
And where I hope to go, leaving earthly scenes below,
When at last life's fleeting show
Here is done.
—Moses Gage Shirley in Yankee Blade.

Telephones in Hawaii.

A telephone up the volcano on Hawaii is a novelty for the dwellers on the islands. In the old days men rode on horseback ahead of the lava flow to let the settlers know there had been an eruption, but hereafter it will be necessary only to turn the crank and call up "Central." E. E. Richards, who built the volcano telephone line and who is the superintendent of the largest telephone company in the kingdom, says:

Honolulu has the most wonderful telephone system in the world. You can get any number you want as soon as you ask for it and can hear perfectly a very great distance. There is a good system in Hilo, too, and the lines run the whole length of the island and go to the houses of many of the largest planters. The people of Hawaii use the telephone much more than do the people in any part of the United States that I was ever in. If a man wants to know what time it is, instead of getting out of his seat to look at the clock he rings up the operator and finds out. If a ship makes port on either side of the island all the planters are notified at once so that they can go to the dock if they desire.

Hawaii could not well get along without her telephones. The line to the volcano runs along the road about half the distance and then cuts through the woods to the top. A forest, deep and almost impenetrable, blocked the way, but men with axes literally cut through it.—New York Telegram.

Wooden Collection Plates Are Popular.

Collection plates have for a long time been in general use. One of the older styles of plates was of brass, nickel plated. Plates of this kind were sold at from five dollars to seven dollars each. At the present time collection plates are made of wood and of various kinds of metals. The wooden plates are the more popular, and they are commonly used in city and country. Usually they are of oak or walnut; oak is now the wood most favored.

A plain plate of quartered oak may be bought for three dollars. It is 11 1-2 inches in diameter. Its flat rim is 1 3-4 inches wide, and the plate is 1 1-4 inches deep. A plush mat is laid in the center. A plate of the same size, having a text carved upon the rim, costs five dollars.

Various texts are used. "God loveth a cheerful giver" is the one most often selected. A receiving basin of wood, into which the collection plates may be emptied, is 15 inches in diameter and 2 inches deep, and the rim is 2 1-4 inches wide. Carved with an appropriate text and with a plush mat, a basin costs twelve dollars.—New York Sun.

A Popular Nose.

The beautiful Mrs. Norton one day went to buy some plaster casts for her niece to use as models in drawing. The proprietor of the shop displayed a large collection of hands, arms and ears, and finally held up a very symmetrical nose. "There, ma'am," said he, "I can safely recommend that. It's the Hon. Mrs. Norton's nose, and hartists do buy a lot of 'em. It's very popular."—San Francisco Argonaut.

They Held the King's Head.

King John gave several lands in Kent to Solomon Attefeld to be held by this singular service—that as often as the king should be pleased to cross the sea the said Solomon or his heirs should be obliged to go with him to hold his majesty's head—if he should be seasick.

It appears by the record in the tower that this same office of head holding was actually performed in the reign of Edward I.—London Tit-Bits.

Knew the Ropes.

Experienced Traveler (at railway restaurant)—When did that man at the other table give his order?

Waiter—'Bout ten minutes ago, sah.

"What did he order?"

"Beefsteak and fixin's, sah."

"How much did he fee you?"

"Quarter, sah."

"Well, here's half a dollar. Cook him another steak and bring me his."

"Yes, sah."—Good News.

Luck.

Brown—Old Cobwigger is remarkably superstitious for a man of his intelligence. I saw him pick up an old horseshoe the other day.

Merritt—Yes. He nailed it over that $5,000 vase in his library.

Brown—Did it bring him good luck?

Merritt—It fell down and broke the vase.—Harper's Bazar.

Robert Collyer's Schoolmaster.

Mr. Collyer regrets that he never attended an academy. The old Yorkshire school, where he learned his letters, was ruled by a certain "Old Willie," who searched for learning among his boys as people did on the prairies for water—with a hazel rod.—Cor. New York Times.

THE NEWPORT INHABITANT.

How the Regular Citizen Enjoys Himself After the Season.

Once in awhile on a Newport street one meets the winter people—those who do not let their houses in summer nor fly away before the invaders, but barricade themselves in their cozy homes as if the British held the town. They walk out occasionally to get their native air, and as they walk they glance with grave interest and subdued curiosity at the gay gadflies about them, who turn old familiar spots into a pandemonium.

With patient resignation they wait for the summer to pass, looking forward with quiet joy to the bright fall months when the restless ocean of society will subside into safety; when the flash and dash of strange vehicles shall have disappeared and the white legged, top booted creatures who have been encountered stalking out of stores, stanging rigid at gateways and hopping wildly up behind gauzy looking women on high carts, shall have given place to quiet looking drivers of steady horses, and carriages that can be mounted from the curbstone without a stepladder; when shopkeepers shall not be crazy and mix up clams and hot house grapes and send a Washington street order to Ochre Point.

When Sundays shall be undefiled by orgies, and no more red coats, stumpy

When sunny, quiet noons shall succeed cool, bright, busy mornings, and pleasant afternoons of social intercourse glide swiftly into the respectable Newport evening, that doesn't have to end in mixed drinks. The summer seems long to them, but they cannot bring themselves to the thought of letting their house to this percolating population, who do not always value the Newport lares et penates as they are valued by their owners; neither do they care to leave for others what is free to all—the soft air and gentle breezes of their own beloved city. The place is large enough for all, and so they linger lovingly behind their vine shaded windows and doors, listening to the whispering of their elms and beeches and the distant roar of the surf, and shutting out the hum and hurry of people and the dreadful whang and whiz of the hated electric cars.—Newport Daily News.

Quarrels.

Disesteem goes with ignorance, and "imperfect sympathy" is responsible for half the quarrels, private and public, which afflict society. We quarrel with what we do not know, and fight across the black abyss of ignorance. Were we to be enlightened about each other, as we imagine the seer to be enlightened in his own way, we should live in peace because in mutual confidence and mutual esteem. We should know, therefore we should be able to apportion, as now, in our ignorance, we cannot do. We should be able to hold fast by our faith in good, and yet not condemn those who seem to do evil. This is a difficult thing to do, but not impossible. The great builders up of faiths and philosophies have not been the exterminators of men. Their disciples may have been, but they themselves were not, because their creed rested on the desire to help men to a better life, not on the wish to punish them for what they were.

It is a safe thing to suppose that we all wish to do what is right in the main. We fail here and there for prejudice, for passion, for ignorance; but the pardon which we seek for our own shortcomings because of our darkness we ought to be ready to accord to others; and when we are most inclined to condemn, we should do well to think of what we ourselves should feel if the disesteem of the ignorant overpowered us and took the place of the respect of those who know.—New York Ledger.

She Meant Business.

A few days ago as one of the evening trains on a nearby short line had neared the end of its run the coat sleeve of the conductor, who was passing down the aisle, was grasped by a woman who told him that he had forgotten to stop the train three stations back, where she should have got off, and where her ticket called for. She demanded that the train be backed to that station. He laughingly refused her demand. She insisted and quoted Blackstone in support of her rights until the cold sweat stood out on his conductorial brow. He argued, but she was inexorable, and finally he backed the train to the required station, much to the disgust of the remainder of the passengers, but to the satisfaction of the woman.—Pittsburg Post.

Men Who Study for Pleasure.

Most of the discoveries of comets, small planets, variable stars and star clusters are the fruit of individual researches. Were not all those amateur astronomers who, in the first ages of history, in Chaldea and Egypt, China and Mexico drew from nature the first explanations of celestial phenomena? From the beginning of historic time down to near our period astronomical science has advanced only by the labors of philosophers, who pursued it as a matter of taste and not officially.—L. Niesten in Popular Science Monthly.

What He Was.

A New Orleans newspaper man says that a squad of Confederate soldiers, who were wearing captured blue overcoats, rode up to a house in Tennessee during the civil war, and called out to the owner: "Well, old man, what are you, reb or Yank?" Old Caution was puzzled by the blue coats and gray trousers. "Gentlemen," said he, "I'm nothin, and precious little of that."

Lowell's Strength and Weakness.

Lowell might have been greater had he been in some respects less. He might have done more had he not known so much. He would have attained to a more powerful originality if it had not been a part of his training to be familiar with and to be pervaded by the best thoughts of many minds in many ages. His greatness in a single form of excellence would have been more unchallenged and permanent but for his many claims to admiration. We do not all agree with Mr. Browning's all complete Greek poet of the decadence, with his mastery of every thing—totus teres atque rotundus.

We think that Mr. Lowell would have been a far greater man in the eyes of posterity if, like Tennyson, he had devoted his life to the one purpose of poetry, and if instead of being all that he was he had concentrated his whole genius upon the gift of song. What he has attained to in a page or two of his verses serves to show how much more he might have done. But to complain of this would be idle and ungrateful. We are, each of us, what we can be, what our training, our temperaments and our age make us, and it is absurd to depreciate any one on the ground that he would have been still greater had he been another man.—Archdeacon Farrar in Forum.

Exercise for Elderly People.

While the elderly man has less capacity for some forms of exercise that the younger adult, he has no less need than the other of the general and local effects of exercise. It is in the earliest period of mature age that the most characteristic manifestations of defects of nutrition—obesity, gout and diabetes, in which lack of exercise plays an important part—are produced; and the treatment of them demands imperiously a stirring up of the vital combustion.

Placed between a conviction that exercise is necessary and a fear of the dangers of exercise, the mature man ought, therefore, to proceed with the strictest method in the application of this powerful modifier of nutrition. It is impossible, however, to trace methodically a single rule for all men of the same age, for all do not offer the same degree of preservation.

We might, perhaps, find a general formula for the age at which the muscles and bones have retained all their power of resistance, and at which the heart and vessels begin to lose some of their capacity to perform their functions. The mature man can safely brave all exercises that bring on muscular fatigue, but he must approach with great care those which provoke shortness of breath.—Fernand Lagrange, M. D., in Popular Science.

London's Host of Pickpockets.

"There are 100,000 pickpockets in London and each one of them knows an American the moment he sees him," said Barrett Seaton, a police sergeant attached to the famous Scotland Yard detective headquarters, when at the Palmer House. "The rendezvous of the thief trainers and their pupils are the dark thoroughfares of St. Giles and Whitechapel and along the wharves of the Thames. They are there by the thousands—women and girls as well as men and boys. They are well organized, have societies and a contingent fund. When one of their number gets into our hands this sum is drawn upon to help the culprit out. Some of the best legal talent in London is sometimes called upon to defend one of the gang. It is a shame that such a condition of affairs exists, but we cannot help it."—Chicago Tribune.

Didn't Read It.

Ambitious Maiden—It's just too mean for anything. The editor sent my beautiful and pathetic story back without reading it.

Fond Mother—Dearie me! How do you know?

Ambitious Maiden—I've looked all through every page and there isn't a teardrop anywhere.—New York Weekly.

A Shorthand Blunder.

One day a lawyer dictated a special writ of fieri facias to his shorthand clerk, and, being in a hurry, rushed off to the court with the transcript as soon as it was made, without reading it. When it was presented the dignified judge glanced through it, looked at a certain part of it steadily, and became convulsed with laughter. He then handed the paper back to the lawyer, stating that he was sorry he couldn't grant his petition.

"I think, please the court, that this is according to rule," persisted the attorney.

"Well, this court is unable to do anything for you," replied the judge. "Your request is unreasonable; just take your petition and read it."

The lawyer did so and found that it requested the court to grand "specin' red fiery faces" to its petitioners.—Exchange.

Pearl Fisheries in the California Gulf.

It is only in the Gulf of California that regular diving gear is employed in connection with the pearl fishery. The beds there were pretty nearly destroyed 150 years ago, when from 300 to 500 pounds of pearls were taken from them yearly. The latter were packed on mules and literally sold by the bushel.—Washington Star.

Misconstrued.

Grace (who loves art)—There isn't a good collection in town these days, is there, Tom?

Dunwelle (absently)—No, my dear. I never knew collections to be so infernally poor since I have been in business.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

SONOMA, DECEMBER 19, 1891.

IMPORTANT TO WINE GROWERS

In these days when grape growing has almost ceased to be a profitable industry everything counts that will add to the year's income of the vineyard and wine cellar. For some time past, says the San Francisco Bulletin, W. B. Rising, State Analyst and Professor of Chemistry at the University of California, has been making a number of interesting tests to determine the quantity of cream of tartar in grape pumice. His report will likely attract much attention for the reason that he points out that wine-makers are now burning or using simply for fertilizing, a material from which a good deal of money might readily be gained.

It is figured roughly, from the result of his tests, that each ton of ordinary wine-grape pumice—the mass pulp, stems, seeds and skins from which wine has been pressed—contains sufficient cream of tartar to net between $5 and $6. Heretofore this has never been made use of for this purpose by wine makers. There are companies in Napa and Santa Clara which buy pumice and put it to this use, but wine-makers have thought the matter too small for them to trouble with. Six dollars a ton net is not much, but where there is a large quantity going to waste it would count up. Geo. West, for example, this year had about one thousand tons of refuse pumice from his El Pinal vineyard near Stockton. He says if there is any such money in extracting cream of tartar as Professor Rising's test would indicate, he will put in the necessary mechanism before next vintage time.

Home Patronage

"Every man ought to have enough local patriotism about him to want to do something for his town," says an exchange. "It is to his advantage as well as to the advantage of every other citizen of the place to do it, and the man who has not the spirit of helpfulness and sympathy for the business men of his own town is not fit to live in it. He should inhabit some dark hemlock hollow where the bats come out of their caves by night and the owls hoot at noon. Never send away for anything that you can get just as good and as cheap at home. Help your neighbor. The man who comes to a town for the sole purpose of making money out of its inhabitants and spends his money somewhere else, is a mean little souled migrate. Spend your money with the people of your town. Patronize home institutions, not fogetting the printing office, and don't get the idea into your head that a thing is better because it comes from a distance.

Last Thursday the Santa Rosa Republican issued a special edition devoted to making known the resources and advantages of Sonoma County. The publication is a credit to its enterprising publisher, Allen B. Lemmon. Two columns and a half are devoted to this place, written up by that bright young writer, Grant O. Richards. His brief reminiscences connected with the old town's ancient adobes are by far the best we have ever seen in print.

Something for the New Year.

The world-renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued popularity for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by the Hostetter company, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 60 hands in that department. They are running about 11 months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1892 will be more than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1892 can be obtained free of cost from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is Peculiar To Itself In Strength, Economy, And Curative Power 100 Doses One Dollar Be Sure To Get Hood's

No other medicine ever placed before the public has won the people's confidence so thoroughly as Hood's Sarsaparilla. From a small beginning this medicine has steadily and rapidly increased in popularity until now it has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Its success it has won simply because it is constantly proving that it possesses positive merit, and does accomplish what is claimed for it. This merit is given Hood's Sarsaparilla by the fact that it is prepared by a Peculiar Combination, Proportion and Process known only to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and by which the full medicinal power of all the ingredients used is retained. Thousands of voluntary witnesses all over the country testify to wonderful benefit derived from it. If you suffer from any disease or affection caused by impure blood, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

MRS. GRAHAM'S

CUCUMBER and ELDER FLOWER CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion—several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burns and freckles, and blackheads will not come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 104 Post Street San Francisco, where she treates ladies for all blemishes of the face and figure. Ladies at a distance treated by letter. Send stamp for her little book "How to be Beautiful."

SAMPLE BOTTLE mailed free to any lady on receipt of 10 cents in stamps to pay for postage and packing. Lady agents wanted.

Order to Show Cause.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Sonoma, State of California. Probate.

In the matter of the Estate of John Tivnen, deceased. Order to show cause why order of real estate should not be made. C. C. P., Sec. 1538.

David Calloway, the Executor of the will and estate of John Tivnen, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of all personal property and the real estate of said decendant, for the purposes therein set forth:

It is therefore ordered by the said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on Monday, the 28th day of December, 1891, at 10 o'clock A. M., of said day at the Court-room of said Superior Court, at the Court House, in the City of Santa Rosa, County of Sonoma, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Executor to sell so much of the real estate and personal property of the said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order shall be published at least once a week for four successive weeks, in the Sonoma Index Tribune, a newspaper printed and published in said Sonoma County.

Geo. W. Beatty, proprietor of the Glen Ellen Meat Market, gives notice in another column to parties owing him to come forward and settle up before the new year.

It is again rumored in railway circles that the Southern Pacific Co. is negotiating for the purchase of the Donahue system. Col. Fred. Crocker, however, denies that any such negotiations are pending.

Christmas is near at hand, but by scanning these columns it will be seen that there is only one solitary holiday advertisement in the entire paper and that is inserted by Hale Bros. & Co. of Petaluma. What in the dickens is the matter with the Sonoma merchants anyhow? You have two weeks yet gentlemen. Get in.

It is rumored that Jas. Roach and Jas. Sullivan of Glen Ellen will again put on the gloves for a contest to a finish. The stakes will be $500 a side. The battle ground has not yet been chosen, but it will not be Sonoma. It will take place under the auspices of a licensed athletic club in some other town.

W. B. Pless is having an artesian well bored on the Senator Jones tract near Embarcadero. The construction of an immense barn will shortly be commenced near the same place. At the present time a great deal of land is being plowed and seeded on that part of the tract near McGill's station. The land now reclaimed embraces nearly 1000 acres and is the finest we have ever seen.

Mr. James S. Pieratt is one of the most successful grafters in this valley. This season he grafted 42,000 grape vines on Jas. H. Shaw's place and other ranches near Glen Ellen and 95 per cent of the grafts took on a vigorous growth. He also grafted 3,700 fruit trees and 95 per cent of these also have made a fine growth.

One day last week a six horse team attached to an immense harrow became frightened at a passing railway train on the Senator Jones tract and ran away. The driver instead of keeping his seat and endeavoring to control the horses, lost his senses and abandoned the team, with the result that a fine mare was run over and literally ground to pieces by the sharp teeth of the harrow. Another animal was badly crippled.

The masquerade ball to be given by the Sonoma Firemen on New Years eve will be attended as usual by almost all the party-going people of the valley. M. Peter, a well-known costumer of San Francisco, will be in town a couple of days before the evening of the ball and will bring with him costumes of every kind and description. The firemen after masks are removed will appear in their new uniforms. Tickets for the ball are now on sale in all the business places in the town and everybody should buy one. The firemen are deserving, and all they ask and expect to receive for their services is that the people of Sonoma and vicinity encourage their organization by turning out and making their annual masquerade ball a success.

A branch of the Continental Building and Loan Association of California was organized in this place last Tuesday evening by Arthur E. Banks, State Agent. The new organization will be known as the "Sonoma Branch." The following officers were chosen to serve for six months: President, Henry Weyl Sr.; Vice President, Julius Fochetti; Secretary, S. R. Ringstorm; Treasurer, H. H. Granice. The object of the association is to encourage industry and frugality and to promote thrift and economy among its members and to assist them to invest their savings to the best possible advantage and to build homes on money obtained at the very lowest rate of interest. Among the members of the association we may mention the following: B. P. Norris, W. L. Crooks, C. H. Gaines, A. G. Bulotti, Henry Hartin, Ed. Gise, Henry Weyl, Julius Fochetti, S. A. Ringstorm, J. B. Small, L. Litzius, H. H. Granice, G. S. Harris.

MANSLAUGHTER

Perry Sears Held on that Charge by a Justice of the Peace.

The examination of Perry Sears for shooting John Riebli was concluded in Santa Rosa before Justice Brown last Tuesday, and to the surprise of every one the Justice held Mr. Sears on a charge of manslaughter with bail fixed at $2500. The examination was to have takes place before Justice Sewell, but owing to sickness he was unable to hold court and the case was transferred to Justice Brown.

Judge Brown, in rendering his decision, stated that the testimony of the case shows that Mr. Sears acted in self-defense; that no jury would convict him of murder, but that he was guilty of the lowest crime that a man could be held for after killing another. He said he would lay aside the decision of the grand jury, of the coroner's jury and also the opinion of the public and hold Mr. Sears to appear before the Superior court to answer the charge of manslaughter.

Mr. Sears, the day after the shooting, was acquitted by a Coroner's Jury, who unanimously declared he acted in self-defense, and later on the Grand Jury, composed of nineteen members, coincided with the Coroner's Jury. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Sears, when he appeared before Judge Brown, stood acquitted by two juries composed in all of twenty-eight of the leading citizens of the county. The holding of Mr. Sears will only entail an unnecessary expense on the tax payers for the trying of a man who can never be convicted for defending his own life.

THE SLOGGING MATCH.

A Scientific and Orderly Contest.

The glove contest last Saturday night at Union Hall between Jim Roach and Jim Sullivan was an orderly affair. There was a couple of scapping matches between amateurs as a preliminary to the principal contest, one of the boxers being given a complete knock-out blow on the neck that felled him to the floor, where he lay for several minutes in an unconscious condition, and was counted out by the time-keeper.

After the preliminary bouts Roach and Sullivan made their appearance in the ring stripped to their waists. The master of ceremonies introduced the men to the audience and announced a six-round contest in which Roach would endeavor to stop Sullivan. The men then entered the ring and after shaking hands went at each other hammer and tongs. The round was a lively one and much agility and science were displayed by both men, but Roach failed to get in his knock-out blow on the chin by the La Blanche swing.

The second round was a repetition of the first, most of the leading being done by Roach, but Sullivan did not appear to be afraid to stand up to his heavier opponent, with the result that both endeavored to knock each other out and were somewhat winded when time was called.

The third round was the liveliest of the evening. Roach landed with his right over Sullivan's heart and scored a clean knock down, and as he arose Roach endeavored to finish him with a left hand swing, but Sullivan was too quick for him and in return landed heavily on the back of Roach's neck. The latter gathered himself together quickly and there was some pretty lively infighting until time was called.

The fourth, fifth and sixth rounds were characterized by some very clever boxing, in which each scored some heavy hits.

Roach, however, failed to get in his knock-out blow and the contest was awarded to Sullivan.

This glove contest was one of the most orderly that has ever taken place in the state.

Sudden Death.

W. F. DeForest, for a number of years a resident of this valley, but latterly conducting a tea store on Kearney st., San Francisco, dropped dead in his place of business at six o'clock last Monday evening. Heart disease was the cause of death. Mr. DeForest, the day previous to his death, visited his farm near this place and returned to the city in the best of health and spirits. His wife was to leave for Europe last Tuesday. Mr. DeForest was the step father of B. Cosgrove of this place, and was aged 55 years.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to clense the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

ADULTERANTS IN BAKING POWDER.

Ammonia and Alam are the Principal Adulterants Used.

(San Francisco Pacific Medical Journal.)

To prove the presence of ammonia in a baking powder, a very simple, but quite satisfactory test may be made by anyone over his own cooking-stove. Take a tablespoonful of the powder to be tested and dissolve it in a tablespoonful of water, place the solution over the fire and stir it while heating, then introduce your nose into the cup. The resemblance of a bottle of aqua ammonia will, in many instances, be very impressive. To detect the presence of alum would require a more critical analysis.

Probably the most nearly perfect baking powder would be that composed of pure cream of tartar, bicarbonate of soda and starch. The starch is a food, the other two ingredients when united chemically in the dough, would liberate carbonic acid gas and leave no objectionable residue.

We might appropriately introduce here some remarks on dyspepsia and outline what, in our opinion, constitutes one of its prominent causes.

The extensive hold which disorders of the stomach have secured upon the people of America has become proverbial; so much so, that dyspepsia has been designated by some as the American Disease. It may be met with all over our great country, in almost every household, and is becoming more prevalent day by day. It is a disease of civilization. The etiological factors which might enter into a treatise on the subject are numerous, but the actual effects of many often very indefinite. No one, in fact, has yet satisfactorily accounted for the great prevalence of dyspepsia in America.

But while numerically these causes may be great, it is at the same time true, that that those exerting any significant influence are comparatively few. Without attempting to mention them all, there is one particularly which has been slowly, insidiously, yet none the less dangerously, exerting its influence, and to which the attention of the medical profession has not yet been carefully drawn. We refer to the constant introduction through the food, into the stomach, of ammonia.

If any one will take the pains to study the modern history of dyspepsia, he will soon discover that its march of progress has been contemporaneous with the introduction and use of baking powders. The consumption of this article has become enormous. No pantry today is without it. Not every brand however is impure. There are one or two worthy exceptions; but many of them are contaminated, and the most deleterious substance to be found in any is ammonia.

This ammonia introduced into the dough is not all set free by heating. According to Prof. Hilgard, University of California, "The ammonia may not assume the gaseous state further than does the water itself, of which it slightly lowers the boiling point; when present in large preportion, the ammonia gas iself will aid in the inflation of the dough. A biscuit hastily baked may have lost only from ten to twenty per cent. of the total amount introduced into the baking powder. After cooling, the carbonic gas contained in the bread cells gradually diffuses and is replaced by air in the course of time; while the ammonia remains in absorption or solution in the water of the bread, recombined into carbonate."

So much for the presence of ammonia in some of the popular brands of baking powders now on the market, and for its retention in the bread. Now, what are some of its effects? Bartholow, classing it among the agents that increase waste says: "The long-continued use of ammonia impairs digestion by neutralizing the gastric juice. Increased waste of tissue is also one result of its administration, manifested by pallor, emaciation and feebleness. When introduced into the blood in sufficient quantity, it damages the structure of the red blood globules, and in this way also it affects the nutrition of the body, besides the action which it has in common with the other articles, of increasing the rate of waste or retrograde metamorphosis." This question regarding the effect of ammonia upon the human economy is one upon which authorities do not differ, and the individual experience of every physician is in accord with the assertion of authorities. The agent is a drug, not a food; an excrement, not a nutriment. The amount received by the system through these means, while not great at any particular time and not sufficient to prove injurious becomes both great and deleterious by being continuous. Physicians owe it to their patients and to the people generally to inform themselves regarding this matter, and without fear or favor unqualifiedly to condemn injurious preparations; and the various boards of health throughout the State, in dealing with the question of food adulterations, would do the people a great service to look well to the brands of baking powders containing ammonia and other injurious ingredients.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Personals, Weddings, Parties and Other Gatherings.

Mrs. V. Bulotti has been very ill for some time past with an attack of la grippe.

Miss Jennie Hall of Carson City, Nevada, is the guest of relatives in this place.

R. E. Keogh was up from the city last Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Lawyer Harrison with his family have moved into one of the Wegner flats on Napa street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Stevenot were made happy last Saturday night by the arrival of a fine baby boy.

James Hennessey is dying at his home in Modesto of consumption. Mr. Hennessey formerly lived in Sonoma.

Mrs. Chas. Englebert has been very ill during the past week. Under the care of Dr. Davis she is rapidly convalescing.

Miss Maggie Kenney, who has been a constant attendant on her mother during her late illness, has returned to her home in the city.

The ladies and children of the M. E. Church will give one next Wednesday evening at the church a grand concert and Christmas tree. All are invited to attend.

Prof. Watson, who has been the principal of the Sonoma Public School for the past two years resigned his position on Friday and last Sunday took his departure for Santa Rosa where he will take an active part as one of the County Board of Education. Mr. Watson during his residence with the people of Sonoma made many friends with all classes of our citizens, and his exi from among us is greatly to be regretted, but we, with many others, wish that in the near future he may realize all his hopes and ambitions. Mr. Watson owns a fine 80-acre fruit farm near the town of Guerneville in this county and it is his intention to shortly take up his residence thereon and engage in the practice of law, his chosen profession.

Brookside was the scene of a pretty wedding last Sunday. The principals were Miss Grace Johnson and Mr. George S. Zane. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. H. Reid and was witnessed by the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties. Miss Annie Rascheo of San Francisco attended the bride and Mr. Elmer Zane, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a fine wedding dinner was served. The guests remained until the arrival of the 3:30 train for San Francisco, upon which the happy young couple took their departure amid the customary shower of rice. Mr. and Mrs. Zane will reside in the future on their farm five miles south of Santa Rosa.

The Sonoma Public School closed on Friday of last week for a vacation of one month. Exercises were held in Weyl's Hall in the evening and brought out a large number of the parents and friends of the children. The hall was tastefully decorated with holly berries, evergreens and a large American flag. The programme rendered was as follows: Christmas carol, the school; holiday song, pupils of Miss Shaw's room; recitation, Geo. Goess; recitation, Lena Cornelius; recitation, Theo Bates; recitation, Geo. Cornelius; song, pupils of Miss Cook's room; recitation, Tavy Day; dialogue, "Keeping House," pupils Miss Cook's room; recitation, Mary Baker; serenade song, Misses Grace Trudgen, Elsie Appleton and M. ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Strongest, Purest, Most Economical.

Certain baking powder makers are publishing falsified extracts from the Government reports, with pretended analyses and certificates, wherein an attempt is made to compare their baking powders with the "Royal," or making bogus tests from house to house, their obvious purpose being to counteract the recent exposures of the inferiority of their own goods arising from their impurity, low strength, and lack of keeping qualities as shown by the Government chemists and others.

As to whether any of these baking powders are equal to the "Royal," the official tests clearly determine. When samples of various baking powders were purchased from the grocers, and analyzed by the United States Government Chemists and the Chemists of State and City Boards of Health, the reports revealed the fact that the "Royal" contained from 28 per cent. to 60 per cent. more leavening strength than any other cream of tartar baking powder, and also that it was more perfectly made, of purer ingredients, and altogether wholesome.

As these powders are sold to consumers at the same price, by the use of the Royal Baking Powder there is an average saving of over one third, besides the advantage of assured purity and wholesomeness of food, and of bread, biscuit, and cake made perfectly light, sweet, and palatable—advantages not to be had in the use of the low-grade, cheaply made baking powders that contain lime, alum, and other impurities.

Evidently a Swindle.

A young man calling himself McKee and claiming to represent the Caskell Literary Club of Chicago recently appeared in this valley soliciting members for the same. A fee of $7 was charged for a membership of five years. One of the baits held out to secure members was that by joining the society a person could buy anything needed in Chicago at wholesale rates. A number of our people joined the club. One young lady who was appealed to declined to go in until she had made inquiries into the standing of the parties running the club. A letter was thereupon written to R. W. McClaughy, Chief of Police of Chicago, and met with the following response: "Dear Miss: Your letter of recent date received and contents noted. In reply will inform you that the concern you inquire about is doing business at the place mentioned. As to the responsibility of the parties or whether or not they are doing a legitimate business, I can only say that your letter and similar inquries which we have received is all the information that we have to the contrary. If a person or firm advertises to sell a gold watch, a sewing machine or a breech-loading rifle for $2.00, or offer to make an oil painting free of charge, it should be satisfactory evidence to sensible people that those offering such inducements cannot long enjoy a first-class business reputation. For information regarding the financial standing of the parties, I would refer you to either Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, Cor. LaSalle and Washington streets, or R. C. Dunn & Co., 159 LaSalle street, this city. Those people make a business of furnishing the public with reliable information of that nature.

The names of C. W. McKee and H. M. McKee do not appear in city directory. They no doubt are swindlers.

La grippe has seized upon the people of this valley, and in many cases whole familes are down with the disease. It is of a mild form, however, and with proper care and attention patients for the most part recover in a few days.

You can have a life-size picture of yourself, your father, husband, or sweet heart, done at one half the price you pay elsewhere by calling on Henry Baron. *

Valley of the Moon Chapter, No. 85, O. E. S., installed the following officers for the ensuring year on Thursday, December 10, 1891: Mrs. P. H. Thompson, W. M; Mr. G. W. McIntyre, W. P; Mrs. G. W. Sparks, A. M; Miss Mattie B. Goodman, Secretary; Mrs. O.B. Shaw, Treasurer; Miss M. E. Wooster, Conductress; Mrs. E. Cassebohm, A. C; Miss W. M. Akers, Adah; Mrs. E. Cutter, Ruth; Mrs. Chas. McHarvey, Esther; Mrs. M. Akers, Martha; Miss E. McIntyre, Electa; Mr. O. Shaw, Chaplain; Mrs. G. W. McIntyre, Warder; Mr. David Calloway, Sentinel; and Miss Mattie B. Goodman, organist. At the close of the ceremony the members of the Chapter presented the retiring Worthy Matron, Mrs. W. C. Goodman, with a handsome P. W. jewel. After the business of the evening had been concluded, a delicious hot turkey supper was served, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

Judge R. E. Hunter, after a short illness, died near Glen Ellen, last Wednesday morning, and was buried in Mountain Cemetery, Sonoma, on Wednesday afternoon. The deceased was an old pioneer, having came to California in 1849. He built the first dry dock in San Francisco and Hunters Point in that city was named after him. Mr. Hunter was a prominent man in the early history of California, and in addition to other honors conferred upon him by the people of this State was elected a Justice of the Supreme Court. The deceased had been a resident of Glen Ellen for several years, and lived with his daughter Mrs. Chas. Justi. He was aged 72 years.

L. Quartaroli, A. Pinelli and P. G. Lovigin, residents of this place, were made citizens of the United States in the Superior Court, Santa Rosa, on Thursday of last week.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1891.

Traced by Hair.

"Once upon a time," said a micropcopist, "a bold robber from Denmark made sacrilegious entrance into a church in Yorkshire, England, and got away with some of the holy vessels. He was caught and was condemned to be flayed alive, his skin being subsequently nailed to the church door for the purpose of affording an example to evil doers and to give an agreeable object of contemplation to the good people who flocked to the sacred edifice for worship on Sundays. That was about a thousand years ago, and after awhile the human hide was torn off by bits, all traces of it being removed, save for small fragments which still peep out from under the edges of the broad headed nails by which it was stretched.

"Such, at all events, has been the tradition in Yorkshire, and it happened a few years ago that an inquisitive person sent a scrap of leather to an eminent expert in microscopy, giving no account of it, but merely requesting to know what kind of skin it was. The professor brought his microscope to bear upon it, and presently found some hairs scattered over the surface, which, after carefully examining, he declared to be human hairs, such as grow on the naked parts of the body. Furthermore, he stated that the person who had owned them was of fair complexion. This was very interesting, inasmuch as after the lapse of ten centuries it was proved possible, not only to distinguish human hair from that of any other animal, but actually to determine the race of the man to which it belonged, the Danes being light haired."—Washington Star.

Men with a Thirst for Blood.

At the slaughter houses in the eastern part of the city there is a set of men who call regularly of mornings for their glass of warm blood. At first it is liable to make them sick, and the taste must be acquired for it. So the habit grows until it cannot be thrown off. Ordinarily a person is not likely to begin the habit, the slaughter house people say, without some reason, and in this respect it is something like the opium habit, for its use is begun as a stimulant. There is a young man living in the eastern part of the city who is a striking example of this. He is a consumptive, and some one recommended warm blood for him. The only place where this could be conveniently gotten was at the slaughter houses, and he at once made them a visit. The first day he only drank a few sips, turning sick at the stomach.

After that he continued the quaffing of blood until now he is said to have a thirst for it just the same as some men have for other beverages. There are scores of such persons who indulge in the bloody cup, and if placed together they would form a regular little colony. The slaughterers have plenty of the warm blood on hand and they never refuse to satiate the thirst of their visitors, some of whom have become such topers that they can drink two pints at a time.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Surnames in Maryland.

The eastern shore of Maryland has been so little disturbed by immigration that the region numbers comparatively few surnames, so that at various times it has been necessary to resort to odd but very ancient devices to distinguish between men bearing the same name. The commonest device is the patronymic, by which of two men bearing exactly the same Christian and family name one is distinguished from the other by the addition "of William," "of Thomas," or "of John," as the case may be, the meaning of the phrase being "son of William, Thomas or John."

Another device once commonly employed was to couple with the name an adjective to indicate some physical peculiarity, as "long" to indicate a tall man, "black" to indicate a dark man, or "red" to indicate a ruddy man. Occasionally the distinguishing word is uncomplimentary. "Devil" is not an unusual prefix to the Christian or surname of a man having a reputation for vice or recklessness. A man bearing one of the best known names in Maryland carried to his grave this prefix.—Chicago Herald.

Lord Carmarthen's Ready Wit.

One of Lord Carmarthen's future constituents once asked the youthful candidate his opinion upon some abstruse question of which he knew nothing. "Let him alone!" cried another derisively; "don't you see he's nothing but a baby?" "What do you think?" reiterated his inquirer, heedless of the interruption and determined to have an answer. "I think," said Lord Carmarthen, with ready wit, "that it is high time for all babies to be in bed;" and so saying he gathered up his papers and disappeared from the platform.

Again—and this last anecdote is so well known as to have become well nigh historical—at a crowded meeting just before his election he was interrupted by the question: "Does your mother know you are out?" "Yes, she does," was the instant retort, "and by Tuesday night she will know I'm in." His prophecy proved correct and he headed the poll by a large majority.—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Acme of Isolation.

He—Such a fearful dream as I had last night, dear! I thought I was so utterly and absolutely alone that the dread sense of isolation awoke me.

She—Poor fellow! What and where did you seem to be?

He—I dreamed I was an oyster in a church supper stew.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

$3000 A YEAR! I undertake to briefly teach any fairly intelligent person of either sex, who can read and write, and who, after instruction, will work industriously, how to earn Three Thousand Dollars a Year in their own localities, wherever they live. I will also furnish the situation or employment, at which you can earn that amount. No money for me unless successful as above. Easily and quickly learned. I desire but one worker from each district or county. I have already taught and provided with employment a large number, who are making over $3000 a year each. It is NEW and SOLID. Full particulars FREE. Address at once, E. C. ALLEN, Box 420, AUGUSTA, MAINE.
